Under the agreement with the university sector, Copibec has issued a comprehensive license for the products that it carries in its repertoire that allows users in universities to make print format copies (photocopies) or digital copies. Digital copies include copies stored on a secure network, a pedagogical platform, a USB key, or a CD-ROM. Products that the university manages or acquires through a third party license, such as those signed through the university's academic library, remain subject to the terms and conditions of those licenses. Please consult your university library for assistance with these products.

For titles covered by Copibec, personnel in universities are authorized to copy up to 15% of the total number of pages of the work for educational or research purposes only. Here are some examples of the copying limits:

- 15 pages from a book containing 100 pages
- 45 pages from a reference book containing a total of 300 pages
- 8 pages musical score from a 50 page musical anthology or collection

However, notwithstanding those limits, university users can also copy the following:

- An entire article from a newspaper or periodical
- An entire chapter that represents no more than 20% or the total of pages of a book
- An entire short story, poem or essay taken from an anthology or a collection
- The lyrics of a song

This does not include work from the Exclusion List.*

*N.B. Any copying that exceeds the authorized limits requires permission from Copibec. The personnel from the print shop will help you when this is required.

A copyright exists for the life of the author plus 50 years following his or her death or following the death of the last contributor of a work written in collaboration. Please note, in the case of translation, the copyright exists for the life of the author and the translator plus 50 years following both their death. After this time, a work is considered to be out of copyright.

*N.B. For works that are excluded from licenses issued by Copibec, users have to get in touch directly with the copyright owner (publisher or author, as applicable) or the university library as may be applicable. You must submit a written authorization with your collection of articles to the print shop otherwise it will not be included in your package. For help, contact the print shop.
